

A Genuine Desire to Serve

REV. EMILE GAUVREAU

is an inspiring speaker and the associate minister at Center for Spiritual Living Cultural Coast in Sarasota, Florida.

I know that God, Spirit, the Universe expresses through me and you all the time. I know money and the currencies we use every day are simply representations of the universal flow of energy, as is everything we experience in this physical world, within which we live our expressions.

I know God can do for me only that which I allow God to do through me. And, I know you and I are the vehicles through which the infinite, universal flow moves. The more we allow this flow to move through us, the greater our expression of Spirit in the world becomes.

This is the essence of circulation. It is the ultimate expression of the consciousness that lives in, through and as us in every moment.

When we give, where do we give from? In the beginning, it is often from a place of wanting to help or hoping that if we give, we will create circulation or abundance in our lives.

Gradually, we move out of the giving-to-get mode or giving-to-fix perception of lack into what I will call a desire to serve — that is, to use the abundance we have in a beneficial manner. Then, we begin to understand that what we have has been given freely and that we are the beneficiaries of the infinite flow of the universe.

In this new awareness, our giving moves from benefiting ourselves or our spiritual homes to facilitating the eternal circulation of the infinite universe.

Ultimately, we become a divine center of circulation through which abundance flows. In this state of being, when we give, we know we do so from the truth of our expression. We are simply the conduits through which the Infinite circulates Its abundant blessings on the Earthly plane.
